Chapter 9: Back to the Future

These are stories from the lowest grade of our bridge club. They feature the fictitious Simon and Vera Simple and other beginners who have just recently learnt to play the game and are now playing at the club. Many things may have changed since Simon and Vera first learnt to play the game, and they are now playing elsewhere at a much higher level, and successfully thanks to their grounding at the beginning. I hope you too will get the necessary grounding in the basics by following Simon and Vera's adventures in "C Grade". From time to time there will be added comments, especially when there may be things that are different these days. But nothing much has changed, bridge is still bridge, and good and bad play is still what it is all about.
